"Our law firm engaged Climate to complete a significant upgrade to our systems. For us, even though we were undertaking a major HVAC project, it was critical that we could continue to maintain a professional environment in which our team could be productive and we could still meet with clients throughout. Climate worked nights and weekends to make sure that they did not disrupt our operations and that they completed our project on time and on budget. It's clear that Climate wants to be a true partner for its clients, finding cost-efficient solutions and providing high quality work."
